

Peristalsis

The digestive tract is a long circular muscle in the shape of a tube. A series of involuntary wave-like muscle contractions move food along the digestive tract.

